If you have found someone's lost iPhone or iPad, and you know how to bypass the iCloud activation lock on their device or phone/tablet, then here are some instructions. First, enter your Apple ID and password to reactivate the device. However, if you find someone else's lost iPhone or iPad and they have activated it with a legitimate account from an authorized source (like a carrier), then you may want to know how to bypass Cloud Activation Lock on that device or tablet.

There is a new software available that can help remove and bypass Cloud Lock on iPhones 14, 13, 12, 11, X, XS, 8, 7, 6S6 Plus 5S5C4s. The good news is that this software is now available from the Remover Company. Since the iPhone is such a popular device, many users experience cloud lock problems for various reasons. For example: some people may have this problem because of features built into their phone automatically; others may have it because they bought an used or second-hand phone.

Guess there are many second-hand iPhone users who are troubled by iCloud Activation Lock.(Also display "iPhone Locked To Owner" after iOS 15 update,). Usually you have to remember the Apple ID and password. Well... It seems not helpful for second-hand users. This guide will show you how you can remove iCloud Activation Lock without password.

Is There Any Alternative to Remove Activation Lock without Password?

Do you have an iPhone but have not been able to get it unlocked since you purchased it? Activation locks on iOS devices occasionally must be bypassed so the device may be used. If you've ever bought a used iPhone or iPad online, you know the hassle of discovering the activation lock is still on. Or maybe you are activating the iOS device of a dead family member after having it restored via iTunes. A message reading "Activation Lock" or "iPhone Locked to Owner" will appear on the screen in such a situation. To use an iPhone or iPad, you must get past the lock screen.
